But don't just take our word for it... check out why these business owners Dig Driggs:

MADE LOCALLY, SHIPPED GLOBALLY

We decided to locate our business in Driggs because we would rather live here than anywhere else. Living next to mountains and epic skiing is important to us personally, and for our ski binding business. Just minutes from Driggs is great resort and backcountry skiing, Nordic skiing, hiking, mountain biking, fishing, and hunting. Rents and real estate are very affordable for both residential and commercial spaces, and wages go farther here than in other resort towns. And despite our off-the-beaten-path location, it doesn't cost us any more to ship our products, which we do daily.

LOVIN' THE LOCAVORE SCENE

The primary reason we chose to locate 460 Bread in Driggs is that Driggs is where we want to live. Teton Valley, Idaho, has a very active local food scene, with lots of great restaurants, several CSAs, and a robust farmer's market, which creates our strong local customer base that is augmented by visitors enjoying our national parks, powder, and trails. Our location also enables us to easily deliver fresh bread to our Jackson Hole, Wyoming, customers 365 days a year. Overhead costs in Driggs are quite reasonable and Driggs offers a strong labor pool, helping us find committed, hard-working employees who share our love of the area. Driggs also has many other complementary small businesses such as graphic designers, web developers, photographers, and marketing consultants.

RELOCATE TO RECREATE

After growing Recap Hats, my partner and I decided to move to the Tetons to be closer to family and the mountains. Within days of arriving in Teton Valley, I was put in touch with the Dig Driggs Team. A few days after that, I signed a lease for a 400-square-foot workspace with city-subsidized rent, and was back working at my sewing machine. I was impressed at how fast and helpful everyone was with getting Recap Hats established in Teton Valley. The town was amazing to work with. They helped with getting my business license, and assisted with public exposure in the newspapers. Recap Hats has been growing steadily since relocating to Driggs, and there has been great support from the town and residents every step of the way.

TELECOMMUTE AND LIVE THE DREAM

After scouting locations around the world, we chose Driggs and have never looked back. The epic powder and biking and hiking trails offer endless excitement, and the proximity to Yellowstone and Grand Teton national parks turn once-in-a-lifetime experiences into everyday occurrences. Excellent infrastructure allows me to seamlessly telecommute to Harley-Davidson back East while the active lifestyle in Driggs keeps my wife busy as a physical therapist. Strong community values and small-town charm keep us grounded, and with so many other young, active couples and families, we are never far from adventure or a relaxed get-together. Now, with our thriving baby boy and burgeoning winery, Teton Wines, we are thrilled to call Driggs home.
